

Daily Democrat.

TELEGRAPHIC.

YESTERDAY'S NOON DISPATCHES.

Latest News from Gen. Sherman's Army.

No Fighting at Atlanta Since Friday Last.

Our Troops Gradually Investing the City.

General Hunter's Request to be Relieved Granted.

General Crook Appointed to Succeed Him.

The Maryland Raid about Ended.

Report of Early Being Re-enforced Entre.

Gens. Averill and Kelly not Killed.

Arrival of Rebel Prisoners at Wheeling, Va.

An Order from the War Department.

Gen. Crook to Command the Department of Western Virginia.

Grant Sending His Sick and Wounded to Washington.

The Fords of the Susquehanna to be Fortified.

(Special to the Tribune.)

NEW YORK, July 23.

The Government has received dispatches from Sherman to-day, stating no fighting has occurred since the fight at Atlanta, and that he is marching gradually westward by our troops, who are retreating themselves as they progress.

Intelligence of the successful result of a cavalry raid on the road leading from Atlanta to Macon is hourly expected.

The rebel raid appears to have divided into two distinct lines of attack.

We understand the Government is in receipt of information that Hill's rebel corps, which was reported to have been re-enforced, is still at Petersburg.

The column which has been reported to have crossed the Potomac is a portion of that which participated in the late day's fight.

There is a general feeling here that the affair is about over, and that, when the forces which are en route to the scene of actual battle arrive, the rebels will be in full retreat, and have not crossed the Potomac, and it is believed the evacuation of Martinsburg was unnecessary.

(Special to the World.)

WASHINGTON, July 27.

More definite intelligence is being developed regarding the result of the fight at Atlanta, and since the fight at Atlanta is the upper part of the line of march of the rebels, it is not known, as heretofore published, in front of Winchester.

The enemy made no new demonstration beyond occupying Martinsburg on Sunday and Monday.

The rebels have not yet made any disposition yet on the part of the rebels to evacuate, and it is probable the city will not be taken without a severe struggle and regular investment and siege.

The Herald's Washington special says it is reported that Hunter's request to be relieved of his command has been acceded to, and Gen. Crook has just been appointed Brevet Major, who succeeds him.

The rebel raid appears to have divided into two distinct lines of attack.

We understand the Government is in receipt of information that Hill's rebel corps, which was reported to have been re-enforced, is still at Petersburg.

The column which has been reported to have crossed the Potomac is a portion of that which participated in the late day's fight.

There is a general feeling here that the affair is about over, and that, when the forces which are en route to the scene of actual battle arrive, the rebels will be in full retreat, and have not crossed the Potomac, and it is believed the evacuation of Martinsburg was unnecessary.

(Special to the World.)

WASHINGTON, July 27.

More definite intelligence is being developed regarding the result of the fight at Atlanta, and since the fight at Atlanta is the upper part of the line of march of the rebels, it is not known, as heretofore published, in front of Winchester.

The rebels have not yet made any disposition yet on the part of the rebels to evacuate, and it is probable the city will not be taken without a severe struggle and regular investment and siege.

The Herald's Washington special says it is reported that Hunter's request to be relieved of his command has been acceded to, and Gen. Crook has just been appointed Brevet Major, who succeeds him.

The rebel raid appears to have divided into two distinct lines of attack.

We understand the Government is in receipt of information that Hill's rebel corps, which was reported to have been re-enforced, is still at Petersburg.

The column which has been reported to have crossed the Potomac is a portion of that which participated in the late day's fight.

There is a general feeling here that the affair is about over, and that, when the forces which are en route to the scene of actual battle arrive, the rebels will be in full retreat, and have not crossed the Potomac, and it is believed the evacuation of Martinsburg was unnecessary.

(Special to the World.)

WASHINGTON, July 28.

Gen. Sanford returned from Washington last evening, and is now at the head of the War Department; that such of the one-hundred days' men from this State as may be in the service at the time of the draft will be exempt.

The Herald has the following from the Department of Western Virginia:

General A. C. III is neither killed nor wounded; the same Gen. Kelly.

The reports in regard to two capture made of prisoners by the enemy are much exaggerated.

On Sunday 150 prisoners, recently captured by Generals Crook and Averill, arrived at Wheeling, and are to be forwarded elsewhere.

WASHINGTON, July 27.

General Grant is clearing out his camp and hospital and sending the sick and wounded to Washington. Several hundred arrived here to-day, and are in condition of recruits.

The following order has just been issued by the War Department:

WAR DEPARTMENT, July 26, 1864.

General Order No. 234.

Brevet Major General Crook is specially assigned by the President to command in the Department of Western Virginia, with the rank and pay of brevet Major General.

By direction of the President, Major General W. M. Averill is specially assigned to him according to his brevet of Major General.

WASHINGTON, July 27.

The Tribune's special from Washington says, Grant to-day, in reply to a telegram addressed to him by the President as to whether any considerable body of rebel troops had left his front to reinforce Lee, said he had no information to that effect, and that the rebel army at Petersburg was as strong as ever; that he did not believe that any considerable force had been sent to the valley.

The Tribune's special from Washington says, Grant to-day, in reply to a telegram addressed to him by the President as to whether any considerable body of rebel troops had left his front to reinforce Lee, said he had no information to that effect, and that the rebel army at Petersburg was as strong as ever; that he did not believe that any considerable force had been sent to the valley.

No news has been received here from the Upper Potomac.

The funds of the Susquehanna are to be forwarded. Engineers were sent to Harrisburg to-day for that purpose.

(Special to the World.)

WASHINGTON, July 28.

Letters from the army of the Potomac state that they have already left to-day on Monday afternoon. The rebels, evidently, thought something was about to take place on our part, but they were mistaken.

Rawlings and Collamer, of Frantz's staff, were turned to the army to-day.

ST. LOUIS, July 28.

The Democrat publishes a long account of the conspiracy to re-elect the President, of the western Confederacy, to-day, for a few days since. The organization engaged in this conspiracy is known as the Order of Knights, and its real object to embarrass and thwart the Government in the conduct of the war, and the suppression of the Government is necessary for its success.

Its professions and purposes are different in the different States; it proclaims a war policy in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and other Eastern States; in the West, it is for peace. The order is of Southern origin, being erected on the ruins of the Knights of the Golden Circle by Gen. Sterling Price, supreme commander, "Vallandigham," while in Richmond, where he had joined the rebels. The order is so far by its origin a conspirator was entered into him between him and the rebel authorities to divide the East and West, and thus aid the Southern rebels.

Vallandigham's secession in Canada was participated in by a number of furnishing this scheme. He held conference with some of the leading spirits in the North soon after it's arrival in Canada, and arranged for the establishment of the order throughout the loyal States and Mexico. At an early visit to the city of Louisville—among them W. H. D. Pendleton, and Pugh, of Ohio, Kilian, of St. Louis, Story and Merrick of Chicago, etc.

The result of this conference also is known to the Government alone. On the 1st of January Vallandigham issued an address to the legions of all the States, in which he called upon the members to renew their vows, and say the time is approaching which will test in the hearts of the people the real object of the Government, and that President Lincoln is a usurper.

A meeting of the Grand Commanders of the different States was held in New York the 22d of February for the purpose of organizing our rebels.

The 10th of March is the day fixed for the draft, but no definite time is reserved upon.

The name of these conspirators is also known. The same Commanders held a conference with the Supreme Commanders at Windsor, C. W., early in April, for a general consultation.

Among those in attendance were McMasters, of New York, Chas. L. Hunt, of St. Louis, and Lafayette Deville, of Indiana. The programme adopted at this meeting was, that Vallandigham should be his Director.

In this the Democratic National Convention, there to proclaim the doctrine and order all present to pronounce the existing administration of the Government a power usurped, which the people had a right to expel by force if necessary, in fact, inaugurating a rebellion in the North, where he was supported by the order.

The Grand Commander was to have armed a body guard at each convention for the defense of Vallandigham. This, it was thought, will precipitate the people of a few States into armed rebellion, and the rebels will be members of the order to unite against lawful authorities, and to kill and capture civil and military officers, and to seize the public property of all kinds and proclaim the overthrow of the Government.

There was no evidence of truthfulness in this statement. The reason of Vallandigham's return to Ohio was, that he feared being defeated as delegate to Chicago, and was only by his presence his election secured.

The numerical strength of this order is said to be considerable over half a million, 150,000 of whom are an armed organization.

In New York the organization is called McClellan Minutemen, and in Indiana, McClellan Minutemen, and in Michigan, the Knights of the Order.

The Grand Commander in Michigan is Chas. L. Hunt, nephew of James H. Luce, Deputy Grand Commander, Charles E. Dunn, city officer, St. Louis.

The list of names and number of the Order in the different States, together with full information concerning the who whom it is in the hands of, the authorities at Washington will probably give to the public to-morrow.

PHILADELPHIA, July 28.

Gentlemen from Baltimore report great ignorance there regarding military movements. The city is quiet, but the anxiety for news is intense. The rebels have more trouble—more others that the brokers and public officers are preparing to remove their valuables as they progress.

The rebels occupy Falling Water, on the Virginia side, and our forces at Wheeling, on the Maryland side, the contest being for the right wing.

WASHINGTON, July 28.

The latest authentic intelligence is that General A. C. III has been appointed Major General, and is now in command of the rebels.

The rebels are now hourly expected to cross the Potomac.

The rebel raid appears to have divided into two distinct lines of attack.

We understand the Government is in receipt of information that Hill's rebel corps, which was reported to have been re-enforced, is still at Petersburg.

The column which has been reported to have crossed the Potomac is a portion of that which participated in the late day's fight.

There is a general feeling here that the affair is about over, and that, when the forces which are en route to the scene of actual battle arrive, the rebels will be in full retreat, and have not crossed the Potomac, and it is believed the evacuation of Martinsburg was unnecessary.

(Special to the World.)

NEW YORK, July 28.

The Government has received dispatches from Sherman to-day, stating no fighting has occurred since the fight at Atlanta, and that he is marching gradually westward by our troops, who are retreating themselves as they progress.

Intelligence of the successful result of a cavalry raid on the road leading from Atlanta to Macon is hourly expected.

The rebel raid appears to have divided into two distinct lines of attack.

We understand the Government is in receipt of information that Hill's rebel corps, which was reported to have been re-enforced, is still at Petersburg.

The column which has been reported to have crossed the Potomac is a portion of that which participated in the late day's fight.

There is a general feeling here that the affair is about over, and that, when the forces which are en route to the scene of actual battle arrive, the rebels will be in full retreat, and have not crossed the Potomac, and it is believed the evacuation of Martinsburg was unnecessary.

(Special to the World.)

NEW YORK, July 28.

The latest authentic intelligence is that General A. C. III has been appointed Major General, and is now in command of the rebels.

The rebels are now hourly expected to cross the Potomac.

The rebel raid appears to have divided into two distinct lines of attack.

We understand the Government is in receipt of information that Hill's rebel corps, which was reported to have been re-enforced, is still at Petersburg.

The column which has been reported to have crossed the Potomac is a portion of that which participated in the late day's fight.

There is a general feeling here that the affair is about over, and that, when the forces which are en route to the scene of actual battle arrive, the rebels will be in full retreat, and have not crossed the Potomac, and it is believed the evacuation of Martinsburg was unnecessary.

(Special to the World.)

NEW YORK, July 28.

The latest authentic intelligence is that General A. C. III has been appointed Major General, and is now in command of the rebels.

The rebels are now hourly expected to cross the Potomac.

The rebel raid appears to have divided into two distinct lines of attack.

We understand the Government is in receipt of information that Hill's rebel corps, which was reported to have been re-enforced, is still at Petersburg.

The column which has been reported to have crossed the Potomac is a portion of that which participated in the late day's fight.

There is a general feeling here that the affair is about over, and that, when the forces which are en route to the scene of actual battle arrive, the rebels will be in full retreat, and have not crossed the Potomac, and it is believed the evacuation of Martinsburg was unnecessary.

(Special to the World.)

NEW YORK, July 28.

The latest authentic intelligence is that General A. C. III has been appointed Major General, and is now in command of the rebels.

The rebels are now hourly expected to cross the Potomac.

The rebel raid appears to have divided into two distinct lines of attack.

We understand the Government is in receipt of information that Hill's rebel corps, which was reported to have been re-enforced, is still at Petersburg.

The column which has been reported to have crossed the Potomac is a portion of that which participated in the late day's fight.

There is a general feeling here that the affair is about over, and that, when the forces which are en route to the scene of actual battle arrive, the rebels will be in full retreat, and have not crossed the Potomac, and it is believed the evacuation of Martinsburg was unnecessary.

(Special to the World.)

NEW YORK, July 28.

The latest authentic intelligence is that General A. C. III has been appointed Major General, and is now in command of the rebels.

The rebels are now hourly expected to cross the Potomac.

The rebel raid appears to have divided into two distinct lines of attack.

We understand the Government is in receipt of information that Hill's rebel corps, which was reported to have been re-enforced, is still at Petersburg.

The column which has been reported to have crossed the Potomac is a portion of that which participated in the late day's fight.

There is a general feeling